

When COVID-19 struck, United Way acted swiftly to set up a relief fund to support community needs. A few examples:

HEALTH CARE WORKERS

PPE for healthcare workers at OSF St. Francis Hospital

OUR PARTNER AGENCIES

Bay Cliff Health Camp shifted to a virtual summer camp experience

Big Brothers Big Sisters staff delivered activity packets to their “littles” at home

Tri-County Safe Harbor had increased expenses for clothing and essentials that usually came from sources that were closed due to the pandemic

SCHOOLS

Technology so students could access online learning

Extras not included in the regular school food distributions, such as hygiene and cleaning products and school supplies

A variety of supports as schools prepared to return to in-person teaching, including clear masks for teachers of very young students, desk shields and sanitizing equipment

Alzheimer’s Association helped a husband get memory testing for his wife after he noticed changes in her memory and moods. She was diagnosed with dementia, and they then connected him with more resources to help him learn how to communicate with her.

Free books through Dolly Parton’s Imagination Library give our youngest children a foundation in literacy to prepare for success in school and beyond.

Welcome Newborns is a free resource for parents, teaching SIDS prevention, potty training techniques, developmental milestones and much more.

Whose life will you change?

Catholic Social Services of the UP’s counseling services are needed more than ever as people cope with the stresses of living through a pandemic. For many who struggle, months of isolation has led to increased fear, anxiety and depression. Through telehealth or socially distanced, safe in-person sessions, people are receiving help with a wide range of mental health conditions, addiction, family conflict and many other needs.

Bay Cliff Health Camp didn’t let COVID-19 stop them. While they couldn’t have campers on site in person, a Virtual Camp experience kept campers connected, with features like “Frog Pond Fridays” on their YouTube channel.
